DONORA WOMAN KILLED WHEN AUTOMOBILE GOES OVER WALL

Mrs. J. E. Woods Sustains Broken Neck in Fairhaven Accident

ON WAY TO VISIT RELATIVE

Critical Illness of Sister Summons Family—Mr. Woods and Daughter Escape—Family Known All Along Monongahela Valley.

Mrs. J. E. Woods, aged 42 years, a well known woman of Donora was instantly killed in an automibile accident at 5 o'clock this morning at a bridge near Fairhaven, and her husband and daughter Miss Gortie, aged 17, were injured. Mrs. Woods was pinned underneath the car when it plunged over a six-foot stone wall. Her husband was thrown free of the car when it went over the wall and escaped with minor cuts and bruises. The daughter escaped with few injuries too.

At 3 o'clock this morning the Woods received news of the critical illness of Mrs. Charles C. Ness, a sister of Mr. Woods, at a hospital in Pittsburg. They at once made plans to leave.

Driving their Ford runabout the party left Donora at about 3:45 o'clock for Pittsburg. They approached the Fairhaven bridge, which is located at an angle and fooled by fences in the dim light of the early morning, Mr. Woods failed to turn thecar abruptly enough.

A physician approached immediately after the accident. With assistance he secured the car was lifted from Mr. Woods and her daughter. Mrs. Woods was dead from broken neck. Later today her body was brought home to Donora. Mr. Woods and Miss Woods also were brought to their home where they are in bed recovering from shock and their injuries.

Mr. Woods is a cripple, having had both legs removed some time ago in a mill accident. The family is widely known all along the valley. Another daughter and a son in addition to the husband and the one daughter injured survive Mrs. Woods.

STILL MIXUP IN RECEPTION PLANS

Departments Disagree on Whether Troops Will go to Mount Gretna

MONONGAHELA GETTING READY

Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart at Harrisburg is authority for the information that the Tenth Regiment troops will return home directly and that they will not go to Mount Gretna, a mesage to this effect having been sent to Monongahela. War Department officials at Washington do not agree, maintaining that the troops must be mustered out of service at Mount Gretna.

Out of the conflict of plans little is to be learned yet Monongahela people are preparing their reception for Company A to take place probably next Tuesday, when they believe "the boys" will return. If the War Department officers know what they are talking about and the Tenth is sent to Mount Gretna there will be a holding up of the reception.

In a letter to Mrs. Hartland received this morning, Captain Hartland states that Company A will arrive home Tuesday morning over the P. and L. E. and that the command will be kept at the armory for three or four days. This probably is the present plan, since it would afford opportunity for the medical examination declared necessary before the soldier boys can be mustered out.

VIEWERS TRY TO DECIDE CARROLL TOWNSHIP TROUBLE

The Board of Permanent Viewers of the county met again Thursday with representatives from Carroll township and New Eagle borough relative to the reimbursement that is claimed by the township against the borough as a result of the incorporation of New Eagle and the taking over of the two school buildings in that borough which were formerly the property of the township. The two buildings taken are the Bellewood and Riverview buildings, one brick and one frame. The viewers have held several meetings and have as yet failed to come to any definite understanding. Another meeting has been arranged for October 17th.

"THE PASSION OF JESUS CHRIST" SERMON THEME

At St. Jerome's mission Rev. R. L. Hayes preached on "The Passion of Jesus Christ." The first week of the mission will close on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A special sermon will be preached then. Rev. Hayes said in part:

"The drama of the world's redemption was enacted on Calvary some nineteen hundred years ago. Only infinite love, aided by faith, can fathom the mystery of mystemes that an immortal God could taste the agony and dereliction of death. In His passion and death, the Son of God, our Savior,p urposed the atonement and obliteration of the sins of all ages by offering for them to His Father a full and superabundant satisfaction. That is the Catholic understanding of redemption—the restoration of mankind from the bondage of sin to the liberty of the children of God through the satisfaction and merits of Jesus Christ. Adam's transgression and all the subsequent sins of the human race had placed mankind at emnity with God, God's honor had been outraged; man had contracted a debt infinite in guilt; man who had been created by God for heaven seemed destined to become a slave of Satan in hell. Satisfactory amends had to be made to placate the offend Deity; the wrath of God had to be appeased; payment had to be made of the debt of our guilt; the chains that forged mankind to the evil one had to be broken. Who was to do all this? Man alone could not offer an adequate satisfaction. His guilt was infinite, and so must his satisfaction be. This was beyond the power of finite man. Then it was the God, our Saviour gave Himself up for our sins and suffered death for our redemption.

"He suffered torment in every form only the protecting hand of His Father and the presence of His own divinity kept Him alive during the progress of His agony. And the reason of it all was the love of God for man. The one cry of Calvary and of Calvary's God was love—an eloquent proof of God's love for us, and a piteous appeal for a return of love from mankind.

The second week of the mision will open Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The services of the second week are intended principally for the men, though all will be welcomed.

Mrs. Alice M. Carmalt Speaks to Athene Women on Training Work

SAYS TEACHERS RESPONSIBLE

Some Children Get Proper Training Only When in School, Speaker Remarks—Good Musical Program Given—Mrs. Mountser Hostess

The 1916-17 club season was opened by the Athene club Friday afternoon with its Reciprocity meeting which was held at the home of the president, Mrs. R. C. Mountser on Lincoln avenue. A feature was an address by Mrs. Alice M. Carmalt of Pittsburg, an instructor of the University of Pittsburg, on the subject of "Matters and Morals, Our Problems."

In addition to the club members and several members of the Musical Auxiliary, visitors were present from other clubs at Monongahela, Donora, California and Monessen. Chrysanthemums were used in the decoration of the spacious home.

Miss Carmalt's address had to do with the training of children. She enlarged on the responsibilities of teachers with the children under their care, stating that about all the proper training some children received was in school. She described the development of the mind of boys and girls and told of the way in which they grow to an appreciation of the right and wrong of things. She spoke as an expert, being engaged to speak to boy and girls of a growing age several hours each day.

Mrs. Mountser in a short talk to the club spoke of the policy of the club for the year in its study of the United States. A musical program was presented by members of the Musical Auxiliary as follows: Piano solo, Miss May Barth; soprano solo, Miss Emma Clutter; piano selections, Miss Elma Collins. Refreshments consisting of ices, cake, coffee and candy were served. The next meeting of the club when the year's study will be taken up will be held October 20 at the home of Mrs. Edwin McKay.

TRIBUTE TO HUGHES

Col. Roosevelt paid high tribute to Mr. Hughes in his little speech at the Union League Club. He said in part: "If Mr. Hughes is made president, we can count with the greatest certainty that not the group of the greatest capitalists in the land, nor yet the group of the greatest labor leaders in the land will be able to get one thing at Washington by threats by duress, by misstatement, or in any other way, save by showing before a competent tribunal the justice of their demands. And I was glad to hear Mr. Hughes emphatically point out that the question was not an eight-hour question at all It had nothing to do with the eight-hour question; it was simply a question of and advance of wages,and that was all it was. I believe emphatically in the eight-hour law as as ideal toward which we must work, but I believe you must take into account the type of work to be done.' '

STRAY SHOTS.

At North Charleroi a woman sitting on the front porch of her home, engaged in the peaceful pastime of peeling potatoes—if you could call that a pastime—was struck down by a stray rifle bullet coming from land knows where. By extreme good fortune the bullet had so spent its strength by the time it struck that only a slight scalp wound that will have no serious consequences resulted.

Somebody was shooting recklessly. That is sure. They can thank their lucky stars that Mrs. George is alive and comparatively well instead of in a coffin, the victim of a whim.

When people go shooting they ought to take possible precautions. If they shoot at a target they ought to back up agaisst a steep hillside so there will be no chance of flying bullets going beyond.

GONE DAFFY.

The whole nation—you might include every other country on the globe if they weren't so busy with their own affairs—has gone daffy over a championship baseball series and until the series is over political activities may as well be suspended and industries may as well plan slow going. Yet outside of those few gamblers who gain financially not will benefit save in satisfaction.

The country will go on the same after the series is over, whether the brilliant Boston Red Sox of the American league or the plugging Brooklyn Robins of the National wins. Excitement during the series will reign intense, for already the nation is keyed up to an unnatural pitch awaiting the pitching of first ball.

To those few inspired mortals who never read a baseball page in their life and wouldn't know first base from middle field, this period of excitement must seem exceedingly silly. Nobody cares what they think. The world's series adds zest to life and we simply couldn't get along without it.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

PAYING TELLERS AND PUBLIC

At the meeting of the American Bankers' Association in Kansas City, one of the speakers gave it as his opinion that "a teller or a cashier with a grouch will waste a whole year's advertising appropriation." Sure he will, comments the New York Telegraph, and of course he does, but the speaker did not seem to understand that the traditions of good banking in this country demand that the tellers, particularly paying tellers, wrap themselves in a cloak of gloom and studiously cultivate the readiest method of repelling any overture that may come from the other side of the wire screen.

Receiving tellers are not so bad. They at least meet the depositors on terms of commercial if not social equality. but in a great many institutions for "minding" the public's money the paying teller makes the poor depositor feel like it is a great favor to permit him to draw out his own.

This to us has long been one of the mysteries of the banking business. Men who on the outside are cordial, genial and companionable seem to think, or many of them seem to think, that austerity only will fit into the atmosphere of a banking house. No matter the National Association has discovered that this does not pay, and is building better manners into the part of employes—Uniform Code of Liberty.

A young factory hand and his girl went to get married. They got as far as the church, when he found out he had not enough money to pay the wedding fee. The clergyman would not marry them, saying "No money, no wedding."

So the girl asked would he wait till she went home for the money.

The clergyman said "Yes."

In a little while the girl returned with the money and the knot was duly tied.

The girl now said to the clergyman:

"Can anyone oppose our union."

"Nobody, my daughter. Heaven bless you."

The girl said:

"Then there's the pawn-ticket for your hat and coat, which I took from the vestry and pawned!"

Time is the test of truth. And Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test in Charleroi. No Charleroi resident who suffers backache or annoying urinary ills can remain unconvinced by this twice-told testimony.

Mrs. Robert Coulter, 520 Third St., Charleroi, says: "One of the family had the measles when five years old which left weak kidneys. The trouble was most distressing at night and there seemed to be an inability to control the kidney secretions. I had often heard Doan's Kidney Pills recommended and I was induced to get a supply at Piper Bros.' Drug Store. The one who used this medicine was soon benefitted and I have hopes of a permanent cure."

Her Hopes Realized

FAVORS BETTER SANITATION IN SCHOOLS OF STATE

Editor Charleroi Mail:

Sir: As the notice is going the rounds that the long deferred opening of the schools will go into effect on Monday, October 2, it is germane to ask: Will the Department of Public Education take the same precautionary steps as to the sanitation of schoolrooms as that which the Bureau of Health recommended to householders? Of course we all know that the Department of Public Education would never be guilty of having the children of the Commonwealth attend school in buildings that are not scrupulously clean and adequately ventilated. But the question arises, now that the schools are going to open, after the fearful scourge that it was feared would decimate the child population of the State: Will they make a continual use in the school buildings of such powerful germicides and disinfectants as have been recommended to the parents of the school children to use in their homes?

Children are brought into close contact with one another and with the Ogres of Infectious and Contagious Disease in classrooms. Would it not be wise to use some powerful germicide, which will not prove harmful to the membranes, as a spray for the nasal cavaties and throats of the children each day before beginning the school sessions. If this were recommended to the mothers of the children, we know from experience that in the majority of instances, it would not be carried out. Could not this important bit of humanitary work be attended to in school? Germs are caught more in the outside atmosphere which is dust laden. They thrive and multiply in the heated schoolrooms. Therefore, after the transit from home to school would be the proper time to take this precaution. Chloride of lime is a great thing to have around in the home, to be sprinkled in cellars and placed promiscuously around the house in vessels containing water. Is this done in our schools. If not, it must be, if we are to say we take every precaution. It has been recommended that the floors be scrubbed with water to which has been added a quantity of strong germicide and disinfectant. Is this done in our schools? If not, it must be, if the schools properly look after the health of the children.

If proper precautions are taken the congregating of the children in the schools will not be held up by parents as anathema when the children catch some sickness that is directly traceable to infection or contagion. "As ye do unto the least of these, My children, so ye do unto me." Forget not the words of Him who holds us all dearer than we do ourselves.
